Teacher Fined Because She Was Married

Special to The Inquirer.

TRENTON, July 2.—Mrs. M. E. Jerauld, who for years has been the teacher of the public school at Trenton Junction, has been dismissed because she is a married woman, and the act of the trustees has raised a general commotion throughout Ewing township. Mrs. Jerauld is the wife of Justice of the Peace Alfred Jerauld. The argument is made that married teachers must give way to those who are single. The women in Ewing township declare they will organize themselves into a club, and at the next school election select an entire new set of township trustees.
